What's in a Name

(Copyright)

YVONNE

(Copyright, 1920, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.) Yvonne is almost a name without a history. It is a feminine name obviously invented from the masculine form for the purpose of honoring the name; it had no parallel growth and no particular reason for being. In short, it is one of the few names in the historical records, which were probably originally bestowed upon some girl baby to perpetuate the name of the father in the event that there was no subsequent male heir.

The history of Yvonne dates back to legendary times when a Persian monarch named Yvhar, established a hermitage in Huntingdonshire in the seventh century, and provided a patron for many an Ivar of Danish and Norman extraction. The use of this name spread throughout France, where it was known as Yvon or Ivone.

Yvon became popular among the chivalrous knights of the Taille-bols, who was the villain in the story of "Hereward" and his camp of refuge. There was also the good St. Ivo de Chartres, who suffered unjust imprisonment, and St. Ives of Brittany, the advocate of the poor.

There have been scores of Yvones in ballad and romance, to say nothing of modern literature. Though most popular in families of French descent Yvonne enjoys great vogue in this country.

The opal is Yvonne's talismanic gem. It is said to bring her that mysterious fascination which is associated with superwoman charm. It will also guard her from unhappiness. Friday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

Dr. Arthur H. Hallop Will Address Liberty Institute; Water Supply Impure

LIBERTY, Ind., Aug. 14.—The institute of the Union county teachers will open at the M. E. church, Monday, Aug. 30, and last until Sept. 3.

County Superintendent C. C. Abernathy has secured a number of exceptionally good instructors for the meeting this year. John Schwartz, county superintendent of the Butler county schools, and Arthur H. Harrop of Albion, Mich., will be here.

Mr. Harrop is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, where he received his A. B. and A. M. degrees. Mr. Harrop also has a Ph. D. from Boston university.

During the five days of the institute, Mr. Harrop will carry out the following program:

Monday morning, "The Teacher Between Days"; afternoon, "Tennyson's Ulysses"; Tuesday morning, "Learning a Lesson"; afternoon, "Missing the Presidency"; Wednesday morning, "Some War Reactions in the Field of Education"; afternoon, "The Lure of Liberty"; Thursday morning, "Learning to Fly Linguistically"; afternoon, "The National Political Situation"; Friday morning, "Some School Teachers I Have Known"; afternoon, "The Challenge of a Handicap."

Mr. Schwartz will use the following subjects during the week: Monday morning, "The Reading Problem"; afternoon, "The Irrepressible Boy"; Tuesday morning, "Typical Study in Reading"; afternoon, "The Teacher and His Philosophy"; Wednesday morning, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow"; afternoon, "The Literature and History"; Thursday morning, "English in High School"; afternoon, "Typical Study in Reading"; Friday morning, "The Pacific Railroad"; afternoon, "The Teacher and His Vision."

A report made recently by Dr. W. A. Thompson, county and town health officer, shows that there is a contamination in the water supply of the town of Liberty. The engineer has been notified to increase the chlorine gas, and it is hoped that this action will clear up the trouble.

Dr. Thompson has sent a sample of the water to the state board of health to be tested. It is expected that a report of the test will be made next week.

The supply was discovered impure about a year ago, and the entire system was condemned for several weeks until a chlorine tank was installed.

The people of the town are very anxious to receive the analysis from the state chemist, and in a great many cases the use of the supply has been abandoned.

In some parts of Scotland the fishermen very frequently call themselves by their wives surnames. Thus James Smith marries Mary Green. He signs himself, even in business affairs "James Smith Green."

EXPRESS RATES TO GO UP TWELVE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Authority to increase express rates 12½ per cent was granted the American Railway Express company today by the interstate commerce commission.

The increase, by unofficial estimates, will add $35,500,000 to the annual income of the company.

The commission's decision, however, does not take into consideration the recent award of the railroad labor board of increased wages, approximating $43,000,000, to express company employees, and it is expected that application soon will be made by the company for an additional advance in rates to meet the new wage scale.

Rates on milk and cream, under the commission's decision, are further increased to correspond with the advance of 20 per cent for the transportation of such commodities authorized by the railroads, except where there are no competing railroads between the affected points. In the latter case an advance of 12½ per cent is authorized.

Only Half Granted.

In touching on the fact that the express company had been allowed only about half of the increase asked, which was 25.15 per cent, the commission expressed the opinion that the full amount awarded should be retained by the express company itself and that none of it should be allowed to the railroad carriers.

The commission suggested that the present express company contracts with the railroads, under which 50.25 per cent of its gross earnings go to the roads for the carrier service, should be modified to this purpose.

One Day's Notice Necessary.

Permission was granted the company to make new rates effective upon one day's notice by filing blank schedules with the commission, but the company is required to reissue its tariffs within 90 days of the effective date in the regular manner.

Nothing in the decision, the commission said, is to be taken as forecasting the determination of the application of the Adams, American, Southern and Wells Fargo companies for a continuance of their consolidation into the American Railway Express company or on the proposed new contract between the consolidated company and the railroads which has been submitted to the commission for its approval.

ARLINE MAINTAINS WITH GREAT FIRMNESS THAT FATHER KELLY, THE YOUNGER OF THE TWO SINN FEINERS, SHOULD NEVER HAVE BEEN A PRIEST, BUT SHOULD HAVE MARRIED AND HAD A LARGE FAMILY, OR ELSE BEEN A

The Diary of an Engaged Girl

By Phyllis Phillips

Third day out at sea now, and enjoying every minute of the time. As for sea-sickness! Dear, oh, dear! When I think of all the remedies that mother brought along in the hand-bag, and that sort of thing, I shudder to myself. Why, the sea has been like a millpond up to the present time, and I never felt better in all my life, which is saying much, for I am by way of being a healthy young animal. Have had a lot of fun watching my traveling companions, and gossiping with Arline Lyons. She has an incomparable sense of humor, that girl, even about her future husband, and the new life that lies before her. Dear me, she's going into this thing with both blue eyes wide open. Not a bit like myself, for I still hold on desperately to Romance, poor little old me! I nearly die laughing every time that Arline comes up on deck with her "Italian in an Hour" book. "To study." She's so funny, for she elaborately explains each time that she must brush up a bit on the new language, and at least be able to greet her fiancé's relations with a how-d'you-do in Italian. Then she begins to talk with me, and that's the end of the lesson. She's learned about two words since we started!

But then she's a born optimist, and so sure that everything will be all right anyhow; and Vincenzo is so "excite," as he puts it, to see her that they will only need to kiss and smile. All very good, for such is the language of the heart, and the one most necessary to two lovers, after all!

Most of the time we sit about and discuss men, politics, the theater, and our own selves. And you may imagine that it takes all of our time to do any of these subjects adequately. She has been amused and annoyed to death by the presence of a party of Germans at her table. According to Arline, they are "pigs," and ruthless about speaking their now rather unpopular language at all times. This is a bit rough on the others near by, who have prejudices against same, and there are many, for there are both Belgians and French people on board going back to visit their native lands for the first time since the war, and most of them have lost some dear ones. Naturally it is offensive to them to have to listen to the German language. But the Teutons do not ever seem to realize this—not they, they wouldn't. And as for their table manners! Words fail her. I did try to point out that it was rather silly for us to expect that the war could have cured these. It would take an earthquake at least!

She pointed out some of them to me on deck this afternoon, and I had to laugh, the women were so "dressed," and all wrong, and yet so satisfied with themselves. A French woman who sat in a chair near us spent her time in glaring at all of them malignantly, and then she spoke to us, and asked us if we knew that they were speaking German. We said yes, and finally suggested that she turn her back to them and spare herself the agony of having to see them at all. This she did, but muttered her opinion of the whole race to us vehemently.

There are also several Catholic priests on board, Irish and Belgian. They are very gay, and two of the Irish ones are Sinn Feiners, and ardent ones at that. We drew them into conversation this morning and enjoyed hearing them tell of their beloved country and their hopes for its eventual freedom.

Must mention that I eat like a horse, and never seem to get enough; it's the ozone, I know. Always affects me that way.

Arline maintains with great firmness that Father Kelly, the younger of the two Sinn Feiners, should never have been a priest, but should have married and had a large family, or else been a second Robert Emmet. He is very handsome, with an idealistic head and beautiful brow. His eyes are a deep blue, and his mouth—well, we both agreed at the same time that it was most—kissable! Shocking to think such things about a priest, eh? They sit and sing Irish songs up on deck at night, and are very popular. I can understand confessing to either of them—perfectly! I do love this trip very much indeed.

Heart Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—Can you tell me if lanoline is good to use on the face to fill out? Will it grow hair?

Also, is camphor good to use for wrinkles? If taken internally, will it keep one looking young? If so, how is it to be taken, and would it be harmless?

IRENE. Lanoline grows hair. It is therefore good to use on the scalp, but harmful to the face. To fill out the face it is more important to eat the correct foods than to use an external application. Drink a quart of milk a day, eat plenty of vegetables and as little meat as possible. If you drink a quart of milk daily you will notice that your face is filling out in the course of two or three months.

I have never heard that camphor is good for wrinkles; in fact, I should think it would cause them, because it is drying to the skin. Camphor is taken internally to help get rid of a cold, but not to make one look young; it would not be good for the system to take it often.

Massage with a cold cream will do away with premature wrinkles. Following are formulas for a skin food and a lotion for wrinkles:

Skin food—Oil of sweet almonds, four ounces; white wax, six drams; spermaceti, six drams; borax, two drams; glycerine, one and one-half ounces; orange flower, water, two ounces; oil of birch (orange skin) 15 drops; oil of pimento, 15 drops.

Melt the first three ingredients, add the glycerine to the orange flower water and dissolve the borax in the mixture; then pour it slowly into the blended fats, stirring continuously.

Wrinkle Lotion—Alum, powdered 70 grains; almond milk (thick), one and one half ounces; rosewater, six ounces.

Dissolve the alum in the rosewater, then pour gently in to the almond milk, with constant agitation. Apply with a soft linen cloth every night before retiring.

VILLA AND MEN REACH MUSTERING OUT PLACE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—Francisco Villa, the former rebel leader, and men under his command reached Tlahualilo, state of Durango, last night, according to a message from Gen. Eugenio Martinez, which was given out at the war department tonight. Tlahualilo is the place where it was reported Villa's men would be mustered out.

At Sacramento in the state of Durango, a priest boarded the train and talked to Villa relative to the Catholic party, General Martinez declared, but Villa replied he would not meddle in politics any longer.

SHE CAN TRUTHFULLY SAY—Hay fever, asthma and bronchial coughs yield to the soothing, healing properties of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as quickly and surely as do ordinary coughs, colds and croup. Mrs. Geneva Robinson, 85 N. Swan St., Albany, N. Y., writes: "I tried Foley's Honey and Tar and results encouraged me to use more. I can truthfully say it is the best cough medicine I ever used. Two bottles broke a most stubborn, lingering cough." For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., 630 Main St.—Advertisement.

VILLA FOR PERSHING, MAY BE PROPOSAL OF MEXICAN HEADS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The provisional government of Mexico, headed by President Adolfo de la Huerta, is prepared to make dramatic resistance to any effort to obtain the extradition of Francisco Villa by the United States government to answer to the charge of murder in connection with a raid on Columbus, N. M.

If Villa's extradition is asked for, the Mexican government will present a demand for the extradition from the United States of General John J. Pershing.

As a result of this position it is understood that the plan to make the formal demand for the extradition of Villa by this government has been abandoned.

The former bandit leader, who has made terms with the Mexican government, will continue in good standing in Mexico and will never be called upon to answer for the Columbus outrage, unless he inadvertently should step across the border.

The position of the Mexican government is that the presence of Villa in the United States, assuming he was present at the Columbus raid, was not without the authority of law any more than was the presence of General Pershing in Mexico when he attempted to capture Villa.

Both Were Illegal

They pointed out that both the raid on Columbus and the Pershing expedition were made without declarations of war, and that, therefore, one was as legal as the other.

They point out that the same conditions exist as to Colonel Langhorne and other Americans who have crossed the Mexican border line in the Big Bend country without the authority of law.

This attitude is not without its humorous features, but appears to have been sufficient to cause the American government to forget that Villa has been indicted for murder in this country.

Under the extradition treaty between Mexico and the United States both countries can exercise their discretion in surrendering their nationals to the other country.

Positive denial that President de la Huerta will seek to maintain himself in power at the end of the term for which he was elected has been made. The denial is made here from sources close to the Mexican government, and is in answer to articles that have appeared in the American press that de la Huerta would seek to contest the election for president.
